TOP 5 WAYS PARENTS USE AMAZE

Use the videos both to brush up my own basics or when my kids are eyerolling my info and need to hear it from someone else.

A couple of my favorites:

The screenshot shows the amaze.org website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the 'amaze' logo, a search bar, and links for 'About', 'Educators', 'Parents', and 'amaze jr.'. Below the navigation is a hero section with the text 'MORE INFO. LESS WEIRD.' and a sub-headline: 'AMAZE takes the awkward out of sex ed. Real info in fun, animated videos that give you all the answers you actually want to know about sex, your body and relationships.' A button says 'Check us out on YouTube'. Below the hero section is a category menu with buttons for 'DESCRIPTIONS', 'FEATURED', 'PUBERTY', 'SEXUAL ORIENTATION', 'GENDER IDENTITY', 'PERSONAL SAFETY', and 'HEALTHY RELATI'. The main content area displays a grid of video thumbnails. One thumbnail is titled 'Personal Safety' and features a cartoon character with a play button and the text 'Porn Is Not Sex Ed'. Another thumbnail is titled 'Puberty' and features a play button and the text 'Having Sex: Intimacy and Emotions'. A central graphic encourages users to 'USE THE STAR TO CREATE AND SHARE MY AMAZE PLAYLISTS!'.

Follow AMAZE on Facebook since they share all the latest sex ed related headlines, run interviews with experts, etc.

"They have been denied classroom instruction, barred from extracurricular activities, and forced to be suspended and separated from their peers for well over a month simply because these students do not conform to Magnolia ISD's stereotypical notions of gender," according to the suit in U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas.
